

Wednesday, March 6, 2002

www.thisiswiltshire.co.uk

Wildlife is to be penned in WILDLIFE artist and book illustrator Joanna May, who recently took over the Studio Gallery in Marlborough, is holding an exhibition of her own work there.

The gallery, based in Hughenden Yard, was run by Andy Le Poidevin, but Miss May bought it after he retired.

The artist's work as a wildlife illustrator has appeared in both magazines and books.

A lot of her work appeared in the former Animal World Magazine, which commissioned her to do paintings of wildlife from all parts of the world, some of them requiring hours of research.

Her current exhibition, features paintings of local scenes.

ON THE WILD SIDE: Illustrator and artist Joanna May with one of the paintings on show at the Studio Gallery, Marlborough (4571/03/HJ)